Bottled Beer List

Farmhouse Style Ales

These delicious brews were developed in Wallonia, the French speaking region of Belgium, before refrigeration for farmhands that worked the hot summer months. Other recipes would not work because the heat would cause spoilage of the beer. Brewers added more hops, malt and yeast to make a beer that would withstand the heat of summer.

Belgian Style Blond Ales

As their name alludes to, blondes are golden in color. They are bottle conditioned and thus naturally carbonated. On the sweet end of the blond spectrum notes of honey and pears will show through, while on the drier side more fresh-baked bread will be present in the flavor profile. Medium-low alcohol content and very quaffable, these are some of the best session beers.

Flanders Style Ales

Dating back to the 17th century, these beers are indigenous to the Dutch speaking region of Belgium, Flanders. Exemplified by beers like Rodenbach (Red) and Liefmans Goudenband (Brown). These styles are native to the East & West Flanders regions of Belgium, respectively. Flanders Red Ales are considered the Burgundy of Belgium, Flanders Brown Ales are known for having more of a malt body & carry less acidity. Expect mellow to sharp acidity with caramel malt or cooked sugar, some notes of sherry.

Belgian Style Amber Ales

The beers in this category use a proportion of roasted malts in their grain. The roast level will vary between breweries, but the effect will be a touch of malt sweetness. This is combined with a bitter hop finish to create a well-balanced brew that pairs beautifully with any braised dish.

Wheat Based Ales

The addition of wheat affects every aspect of the beer. The nose can have notes of citrus, banana, and spice. The reaction between the yeast and the sugars of the wheat makes for explosively effervescent ales. Light and crisp, these are refreshing beers packed full of flavor.

Lagers

To be a lager, a beer must be fermented with a cooler temperature thriving yeast strain. Developed in Central Europe, these beers go through a more complete fermentation than their ale cousins. Lagers can take on any flavor profile. Some are delicate and light, while others are assertive and dark.

Belgian Style Dubbel Ales

This style started to gain a more focused identity in the mid-20th century. Today, dubbels are dark ales with mid to high alcohol content. They can range from dry to sweet with complex aroma and body. Everything from dark fruit to toffee/caramel flavors can be expected from these hardy ales.

Belgian Style Tripel Ales

Tripels and dubbels were developed side by side in Belgian abbeys. Modern tripels are pale in color with high alcohol content. Many consider these ales to be the most complex of the Belgian family. Everything from candied sugar to cloves is used in their recipe to give them great depth of flavor.

| Chimay White (Trappist) 11.2 oz (8.4% ABV) Belgium<small>48</small>         | 14 |

Quadrupel Ales

These monster size ales were inspired by the Trappist brewers of Belgium. With bolder and heavier flavors than dubbels or tripels, 'quads' trend toward dark brown to garnet in color. They have considerable alcohol content and are meant to be savored. Try pairing these with more aggressive cheese and taste their layers unfold on your palate.

India Pale Ale

This style is a creation of the old British Empire. In order to feed the quite sizable thirst of foreign stationed troops, beer had to be hardy enough to withstand the 5-month long journey from London to Calcutta. To accomplish this, brewers used considerably higher amounts of hops and allowed the beer a longer fermentation to increase the alcohol. These additional steps had an antiseptic effect on the English ales that added longevity.

Lambic (Fruit & Gueuze)

To be considered a true member of the Lambic family, beer has to be produced in Brussels or in the surrounding region of Payottenland. The brewing techniques employed date back to medieval times and give these beers a sense of place that few other beverages can match. Ranging from the tart and sour gueuze to the sweet fruit lambics, these special offerings are truly unique.

Boon (Brouwerij)

The oak casks used at Brewery Boon each have their own history and are characterized by unique microflora of wild yeast strains. Bottles of traditional Oude Geuze with cask numbers combine beer from one specific wooden cask (mono brew) with a very small quantity of young lambic (blend) that will kick off the bottle conditioning process. By using lambic from certain oak casks, the geuzes created have unique properties, with wine or whiskey-like flavors. Either very dry or very gentle. The number on the bottle always refers to the number of the cask.

Strong Dark Ales

Spicy and sweet, the strong dark ale style hosts a wide selection of flavors and aromas. Some have a delicate palate, others, a warming aftertaste that stretches on past the last sip. In typical Belgian fashion, most of these beers will use adjunct ingredients like dark candied sugar or coriander.

Stout & Porter

These beer styles originated in the pubs of London during the mid-eighteenth century. The style of porter was named after its most enthusiastic followers: the river porters of London. The British brewers experimented with the amount of flavor that they could pack into their porters, and through this process developed the stout style. Marked by their use of dark roasted malts, these two beer styles have flavors of chocolate and coffee.

Cork & Cage (For The Most Part)

- Hof Ten Dormaal, Aged In Jura Barrels 25.4 oz (12% ABV) Belgium 22
This Blonde Ale has aged for over a year in barrels from the Isle of Jura. A gentle peated taste blend smoothly into the beer which finishes with a subtle woody taste. Hof Ten Dormaal brews are brewed exclusively with home-grown grains and hops from the farm.
W1181
- Upland Revive 16.9 oz (6% ABV) Bloomington, IN 27
This brewery out of Indiana has seen its sour program explode in popularity over the past few years. By treating their yeast in the traditional Belgian method, this allows their fruited and barrel-aged sours to reach fantastic depths.
W1181
- Halia, Goose Island 25.4 oz (7.5% ABV) Illinois 35
Brewed with the Saison and farmhouse ales and fresh Georgia peaches and Brettanomyces clausenii to a fresh white wine barrel and aged the Saison base for 9 months. Stretching the boundaries of the traditional style
W110
- Lolita, Goose Island 25.4 oz (10% ABV) Illinois 35
Lolita is a pink rose colored Belgian style pale ale fermented with wild yeast and aged on raspberries in wine barrels. Aromas of fresh raspberries, bright jammy fruit flavors and crisp, refreshing body make Lolita ideal for beer drinkers fond of Belgian Framboise.
W107
- Gillian, Goose Island 25.4 oz (8.8% ABV) Illinois 35
Ale with Strawberries, Honey, and White Pepper Aged in Wine Barrels. White pepper strawberry, and honey are added to a harmonious blend of "mouth amusement". The ingredients are added at different stages to a Saison, and fermented with a normal Belgian yeast as well as a Champagne yeast. Formerly known as "Scully"
W1191
- Madam Rose, Goose Island 25.4 oz (7.9% ABV) Illinois 35
Belgian-style wild ale aged in French oak Cabernet Sauvignon barrels with the addition of Michigan cherries and heavily inoculated with Brettanomyces.
W113
- La Roja, Jolly Pumpkin Artisan Ales 25.4 oz (7.2% ABV) Michigan 29
An artisan amber ale brewed in the Flanders tradition. Deep amber with earthy caramel, spice, and sour fruit notes developed through natural barrel aging. Unfiltered, unpasteurized and blended from barrels ranging in age from two to ten months
W111
- Gouden Carolus Cuvee Van de Keizer Blauw 25.4 oz (11% ABV) Belgium 30
Considered one of, if not the best Belgian Strong Dark Ale, this incredibly deep flavored dark ale is brewed once a year to commemorate Charles Quint. You won't be disappointed.
W104
- Straffe Hendrik Xmas Blend 25.4 oz (11% ABV) Belgium 50
A very limited selection of the quadruple production is a barrel-aged each year in the medieval cellars of the brewery. For this Xmas Blend, the barrel selection is determined by De Halve Maan's brew masters, Combining Bordeaux, Calvados and Rum barrel-aged Quadrupel.
W115
- Scotch de Silly Scotch Barrel-Aged 25.4 oz (10.5% ABV) Belgium 40
The newest entry into this barrel-aging series is one we've been eagerly waiting for – Silly has finally introduced its iconic Scotch ale with barrels from its ancestral home. Come for the smooth, Highland-influenced notes, stay for the roast you've expect from Silly.
W117
- Scaldis Bush Prestige 25.4 oz (13% ABV) Belgium 55
The Bush Prestige is a Bush Ambrée that, rather than maturing in stainless steel tanks, has spent 6 months finishing in oak barrels. During the bottling process, small amounts of sugar and yeast are added to the beer so it re-ferments in the bottle during its stay in the brewery's warm room. This develops the natural yeast cloud and gives the beer its exceptionally high alcohol volume of 13%. Reviving the traditional use of oak barrels has introduced aromas and tannins that haven't been experienced in beer for many years. Even the most demanding beer lover will be bowled over by these qualities. Think of the aromas of whisky and other spirits matured on oak coupled with an extraordinarily rounded character. The Bush Prestige is an exceptional beer thanks to its rounded taste, its rich aromas, the exclusive bottle and the limited distribution.
W116
- BFM Brut des Franches 25.4 oz (8% ABV) Switzerland 90
Brewmaster Jerome Rebetez continues his 20-year assault on traditional beer with this gem. Here, he takes his  $\sqrt{225}$  Saison and gives it the Champagne treatment. The result is a sparkling, slightly sour and incredibly smooth result that's worth every bit the price point typically associated with Champagne.
